Great Britain has already intimate that British merchant ships have been advised to use neutral flags only in

The German Minister at The Hague has issued another warning to neutrals to the effect that, in view of the alleged declaration of all the British ports as war note and this use of neutral flags by British ships, it would be dangerous for neutral merchantmen to visit the proscribed waters after February 18.

So far as the East Prussian situation is concerned, the Russian official report indicates that the Russians, having evacuated the greater part of the German province, are making a stand on or near their frontier-whether for a pitched battle or only to delay the German advance, it will take a few days to tell.

On the last occasion that Von Hindenburg drove them from East Prussia the Russians fell back to their fortified lines between Niemen and the German frontier, where they defeated the Germans. On this occasion, however, they have had more time to prepare their positions and may give battle before the fortifications are reached. The Russians already claim to have repulsed one German attack near Lyck.

Throughout Poland, where fierce affatting has occurred during the past week, the battles now consist of artillery engagements, while in the Carpathians fighting of more or less se-

On April 25, of that year, just as two detective agencies were about to awoop down on Schmidt and David Caplan, the last two members of the dynamiters' gang, it was discovered that the supposedly "cornered" men had eluded their pursuers. Schmidt had been under surveillance for four days previously, and the officers were confident that all that was necessary was to stretch out their nets and enmesh the two men.

The dynamiters made their headquarters in a little back room in a flat on the West Side. The capture of Schmidt gave both the Pinkerton and the Burns agencies their hardest work of the entire case.

PAPERS, NOT FLAG. IDENTIFY VESSEL

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] PARIS, Feb. 13.—Discussing the American notes to Germany and American notes to Germany and Great Britain, the Temps today recalls that Secretary of State Lewis Cass in correspondence with Great Britain in 1860, declared that the papers and not the flag of a vessel constituted its nationality and also that the Americans used a flag other than their own on a vessel of war to approach Guam in 1898. The newspaper points out that the Italian marrine code recognizes the right of a vessel to fly a neutral flag by allowing the use of the Italian flag on the commercial marine of a belligerent.

It is at Berlin, the Temps concludes, that neutral countries should protest when it supposes that this is the American point, of view.

MISSIONARY PENSIONS.

Workers in the Foreign and Hom Field to be Cared for by Protestant Episcopal Church.
[B' A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.-Pensions or its home and foreign missionaries ANOTHER REPORT for its home and foreign missionaries have been arranged for by the board of missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which an announcement today states has just voted to enter the general clergy pension funds, recently established by the general convention to that church.

To provide pensions for all of its missionaries the board will pay into the fund between $35,000 and $40,000 a year, or 7 per cent. of the salaries received by the workers. On retirement each missionary will receive a minimum amount of $600.

FOOL RAIDS

Uneasy, not to say luckless Joe Scott (once a McNamars attorney of the retiring sort) recently gave mental birth to the curious conceit that The Times was indebted to him in the sum of $60,000 for publis ing an alleged libel upon him-self; and now he thinks his first demand was not big enough and wants $60,000 more enough and wants $60,000 more. Joe Scott is wrong again; he never will recover $120,000 or any other sum from The Times, on his two complaints for libel. He is, of course, aided and abetted in his attempted raids upon the steel-enoaged strongbox of this fortified and fortilike establishment by the preposterous and impecunious Earl newspapers, which, likewise hungry, naturally have a fellow feeling for Joe Scott and his wondrous blind, causing them to yearn early and ing them to yearn early and late for the coin of the commonwealth with which to creat. stop-gaps against the increas ingly clamorous ensets of their impatient creditors. Joe Scott would do well to cease pursuing a delusive ignis fatuus; he might better try to get relief from his jejune, jagged and Schmidt has several distinguishing features—a glass eye, a scar on the nose and lameness. He was injured in a planing mill in El Paso, losing one eye and fracturing his leg.

"My investigations disclosed that the plot to blow up the Times Building was discussed in the home of Bell Lavin on Mission street. San Francisco," said Detective Sam Browne last night. "The men proceet were Schmidt, Jim McNamara and David Caplan. The Lavin woman was brought to Los Angeles and kept in fail. She was the friend of Schmidt. During the time of the dynamite investigation? traced Schmidt to various places over the country. He is a bad actor. If he is caught I know people who can easily identify him."

Mr. Browns was chief of detectives in the District Attorney's office when the Times Building was destroyed.

The following telegram from Inspector Faurot of the New York City police was received here last night by the Chief of Police:

"Matthew Schmidt, dynamiter of the Times Building, your city, October, 1910, arrested. Send officer with papers, He's held without bail until February 24. Wire particulars."

California Wines in Demand Because of the War.

Foreign Visitors at the Fair will Gain Many Ideas.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 13.—A nation-wide mpaign of education on the possi bilities of wine as a health food was advocated by C. E. Bundschu, State Viticultural Commissioner, in an ad-iress this afternoon at the Empire ter before the grape growers of the third viticultural district. Mr. Bundschu also spoke of the possibili ties of exploitation presented at the Panama-Pacific fair among nations which heretofore have looked to Europe for their wines, and which they now must buy of California. Because of the war, he stated, a great impetus has been given to the demand for California champagnes and he prophesied that this would soon be extended to dry wines.

Paul Masson of San Jose, State Viticultural Commissioner-at-large, pre-Paul Masson of San Jose, State Viticultural Commissioner-at-large, presided. An address was delivered by Prof. F. Floss Feder, University Farm, Davis, Cal., on "Preparation of Sofl, Planting and Care of Toung Vineyards." The meeting concluded with descriptive pictures and an address by State Commissioner H. F.
Stoll of San Francisco on "How the California Grape Industry will be Exploited at the Panama-Pacific Exposition." The pictures, which will be
screen and were watched with considerable interest.

Elaborate plans for showing the foreign visitors at the fair that California can supply the world's demand for wine in place of the devastated
European vineyards were advocated.

Subsequently it developed, it is said, that they changed the name of the launch to the "Pastime," while en route to Giant, the site of the powder works.

The dynamite was brought to San Francisco, it is said, and later taken in suit cases to Los Angeles. Matthew Schmidt, James B. McNa

ANOTHER REPORT ON WASHINGTON

IBY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 .- Ambasador Morgenthau sent a further report today to the State Department concerning the sinking of the steamer Washington during the bombardment of the Turkish port of Trebizond. Officials thought his telegram revealed his inability as yet to gather the full details of the incident, for he gave two versions of the affair that had reached him—one that the Turks had fired on the Russian ships and precipitated a bombardment, and the other that the Russians were the aggressors. He did not say whether the Washington was in the line of fire or not, nor did he report whether the ship flew the American or Greek flag.

One member of the crew, a Greek, was killed by shots that sunk the Washington. All others aboard were saved. ment of the Turkish port of Trebi-Commission, and involve discrimina-

The following Austrian official statement was given out here tonight:
"In Russian Poland and West Galicle nothing noteworthy has occurred.
"The situation along the Carpathian front in the western and middle section in general is good. The strong Russian counter-attacks in the vicinity of Dukla Pass are becoming rarer. In the eastern section we have progressed.
"Simultaneously with the successful advance in Bukowins, our troops, after repelling the enemy near Koercemesoe, crossed Jablonica Pass and the passages on both sides of this road. Our forces in the upper region of the River Pruth won their way out of the mountain valleys and reached Wisznitz, Kuty, Kossow, Delatyn and Pasicizna.

ONTARIO MAN DIES.
[LEGAL CORRESPONDENCE.]
ONTARIO, Feb. 13.—Jacob Jesson, prominent retired merchant and for twenty years a resident of Ontario, died late this afternoon at San Antonio Hospital at the age of 63, after a three-days' battle on the part of six doctors to save his life following a major operation. Mr. Jesson was a Royal Arch Mason, a director of the People's Mutual Building and Loan Association of Ontario, a descon in Bethel Congregational Church, and a prominent politician. He leaves a widow and four children.

Senator Burton asked Senator Fletcher, in charge of the shipping bill, why the administration was so opposed to the specific prohibition of the purchase of beligerent interned ships.

"That would not be a wise or patriotic course," said Senator Fletcher, "and it would be writing into the law denunciation of a principle upon which we always have looked with pride."

"That shows that you are looking for trouble," said Senator Burton.

"And that you are willing to make trouble. Senators on this side owe it to the country to save it from the widow and four children.

MASTER PLUMBERS TESTIFY.

Former Officials of Association Zay They Were Fined for Violation of the Rules.
[BY A. F. NIGHT WIRE.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Feb. 13.—
Former officials of the National Association of Master Plumbers of America teetified today for the government in the trial in the United States court of the thirty-six master plumbers under indictment, charged with violation of the Sherman antitrust law. They were Fred Werentin, Jr., former national State vice-president of the association, and W. A. Bruce, a former organizer of the Iowa association.

dent of the association, and w. association.

Bruce, a former organizer of the Iowa association.

Werentin testified that upon one occation his company sold a bill of goods to a non-member at Oelwein, and as a result of complaints that he said were made by William Scott of Oelwein and a defendant in the present case, was forced to pay a socalled "fine" which was about the same amount as was the bill of goods sold to the independent.

The United States District Attorney read from letters alleged to have been written by the late E. O. Edson, former organizing secretary of the Iowa association, which told of the system employed by the Iowa organization in handling "complaints" and "information" slips.

In sending out "information slips" the association, according to the government lawyers, started a boycott of the Jobber or manufacturer against whom a complaint had been lodged.

[BY / P. DAY WIRE]

BAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—As understood at the offices of the Southern Facific Company here today, the interpretation of the Panama Canal interpretation of the Panama Canal act given by the Interstate Commerce Commission permits vessels of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to operate through the canal to Mazatlan, Mex., and points on the Atlantic seaboard. In its petition for a ruling, the company laid stress on this point because it has terminal connections by rail with Mazatlan and plans now held in abeyance until the return of peace and stability in Mexico once contemplated important development of the company's Mexican system.

Beyond the brief statement that the decision was what the Southern Pacific had hoped for and expected, President Sproule had nothing to say for publication.

At the offices of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which is owned by the Southern Pacific Company, it was explained that two Pacific Mail lines are operated. One piles to the Far East via Honolulu, Yokohama and Manila to Hongkong and Shanghai. The other line is between San Francisco and ports of Western Mexico and the west coast of Central America.

ico and the west coast of Central America.

Before the passage of the Panama Canal act, which the company never has contested, it was planned to inaugurate a service from San Francisco to New York. Contracts for new vessels to be placed on that run had to be abandoned. The Pacific Mail is not now operating and never has operated vessels through the anal. Its west coast and oriental service will continue as usual.

TIA JUANA RIVER RAGES,

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 13.—Tourists ere bent on seeing Mexico are being rowed across the border at Tia Juana in a boat by enterprising Mexians, who for 50 cents a passenge take the tourists across the raging Tia Juana River. More than 500 feet of the bridge that spans the river has gone out and 100 feet had been washed away previously. Food and provisions are getting low in Tia Juana, where they receive most of their stores from the American side, and arrangements are being made to send supplies to the border town by boat.

On his recent visit to Indianapolis Mr. Bryan made an address to the General Assembly of Indiana in which he practically threatened the members of the Legislature if they refused to enact an initiative and referendum bill. "No man," declared Mr. Bryan, "who violates the primary provision of the Democratic platform in Indiana will be able to go back to his people and give them his real reasons for doing so. If you do not know what I mean I believe you will understand what your constituents mean when they leave you at home and elect real Democrats in your stead at the next election."

And yet President Wilson has paid little attention to the Baltimore platform.

Senator Camden in his refusal to support the ship purchase bill quoted the President against himself as the reason for his action. In his veto of the immigration bill, the President said: "Does this bill rest upon the conscious and universal assent and said: "Does this bill rest upon the conscious and universal assent and desire of the American people? I doubt it It is because I doubt it that I make bold to dissent from it." "The ship purchase bill," declared Senator Camden, "is a new proposal and the country has never expressed itself upon it," and as it involved the reversal of a national policy pursued for 125 years, he refused to support

The present Democratic administration has increased the aggregate of the Federal expenditures over past administrations and has also added 5522 offices with salaries amounting to $5,977,049. President Taft, on the contrary, actually cut down the estimates and appointed a commission to study the problem of administrative reorganization in the interest of greater efficiency and economy. The Democratic House cut off the appropriations for the efficiency commission as if afraid the commission would reduce the number of opportunities for good Democrats to obtain offices. This is the manner in which the pledge of economy in the Baltimore platform has been observed.

According to Representative Un-

According to Representative Underwood, the Democratic leader, there will be a deficit in the Postoffice Department of about $14,000,000 for the present year, and the ordinary expenses of the government will exceed the receipts by about $20,000,000. It costs something to enjoy a Democratic administration.

Democratic administration.

The first pay roll of the Kansas Legislature reveals the fact that it has fifty-two more employees than members of both branches. The House has 125 members and 107 employees, costing the people of the State $2.42 a day a member for "help." The Senate has forty members and 110 employees, the per capita Senate cost being $8.10 a day, the help in the upper branch costing nearly three times as much as the members. The Senate also has almost three employees for each member.

Gov. Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania has asked the heads of State Departments to give him in detail the number of employees, the duties and salaries of each, and the name of the political leaders who recommended them for their places. The request is said to have created considerable consternation, a fact that of itself suggests there may be an unnecessary number of employees about the State House as compared with the number of persons who would do the same amount of work in a business man's establishment.

at $25,000 from Simon Chittenden, two years ago.

Officers in the Bay City were unable to identify the prisoner and wired to the local Police Department. Detective Jones, who is in charge of the detective identification bureau, had no trouble in making the identification complete.

Shortly after the robbery, which created a big sensation in New York, Charles Rosenthal was arrested here but was later released upon his promise to go to Chicago and turn over the majority of the missing jewels. It is said he failed to comply with his promise and he and Elbert were arrested on suspicion in San Francisco. COLLIER JASON

They left Chicago Friday and are due to arrive here early this week. The trip to San Francisco by the "billionaire" special will be made in cars never before used.

Since extra cars will be added, Manager Linnard is arranging to enlarge accommodations for a number of others in addition to those already booked.

MOVES TO PASADENA.

Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the silent Knight motor, has purchased the Messelberger home at No. 260 Bellefontsine avenue, paying $15,600.

Mr. Knight and has family live in England, but he has so much business in the United States, and especially in Southern California, that they decided to make Pasadena their winter home.

Mr. Knight has an international reputation, his motors being used by twenty-five companies, five of which are in America.

BELGIAN BABIES.

Sixty Belgian bables have been adopted by proxy by the people of Pasadeas. Since announcement of this novel plan was made, several persons have adopted bables, while others have only adopted haif a baby, and in some instances four persons have clubbed together and adopted a quarter of a baby aplece.

It only takes $2 a month for six months to adopt one of these little sufferers who will remain in Belgium. The adopted parent, however, will see that his or her adopted baby will have plenty of milk. The number of these bables to be adopted by Pasadeans is 500.

Upper San Fernando Valley to Push Citrus and Deciduous Crops—Fears and Apricots Aiready Successful.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OWENSMOUTH, Feb. 13.—Much interest is manifested in the planting of fruit trees in this vicinity and it is estimated that fully 100,000 trees will be set out in this end of the valley of this season. Two carloads of trees have already been received and other targe orders have been placed by local orchardists.

Pear and apricot trees have proven profitable in this section and the bulk of the recent shipments are of these varieties. Preparations are also being made for planting some 150 acres of orange and lemon trees on the foothills west of town.

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 13.—F. R. Davis, a detective employed by the State Pharmacy Board, was bound over to the Superior Court today at his preliminary hearing on a charge of criminal constpracy brought by Frank Barger, former nurse at the County Hospital.

Hospital.

Barger alleged that Davis, with a woman detective, Miss D. Porter, for whom a warrant is also out, were in a plot to manufacture evidence that would lead to his arrest for having morphine in his possession. Barger was thrown in jail on no charge, he alleged, although Dr. Calinon, superintendent of the hospital, claimed that Barger administered a "hypo" without instructions.

aga. After that I slept as best I could on the little couch in her cabin."

GRIEF AND HEROISM.

The war has been brought home very closely to the singer. One family of her acquaintance has lost six sons. Another friends of hers is a woman who built a great hotel in Hamburg for three sons, who were to devote themselves to it. Now the three sons are dead, each a victim to builtet in the same month of November. Mme. Sohumann-Heink's greatest grief is for a brother, who was an officer on an Austrian naval vessel that was sunk in one of the early engagements. "It is the women who are suffering most because of the war," she says. "I saw the first wounded brought in. I saw women who had already been bereaved. Their grief is dry-eyed. They do not wall and cry. Most are carried by a big patriotism; happy that they have given something to the Fatherland. I cannot understand how they have such control of themselves. They are heroic—grand to see."

Although she is of Austrian blood and her children were born in Germany, Mme. Schumann-Heink says sixteen years in America have wedded her to American ideals and she is respecting the President's wish for strict neutrality.

"What I give is to such organizations as the Red Cross," she says. "In that, way I help neither one side or the other."

Mme. Schumann-Heink has a home near San Diego near-by which another says with that the ordinate metals with roofs much her is controlled in the president with a metal amended.

about the only elective officers in the State, Gov. Johnson, apparently, has determined to give 'em the ax and name three of his reformers to do the work, ably abetted by a few hundred ardent "Progressive" henchmen. Simple, is it not?

It so happens that two of the four members of the State Board of Equalization are not "Progressives." They were elected at the general election last November for a term of four my ars. This amendment would eliminate the two Republican members of the board in November, 1916, or two my cars before their terms expired. Simple, eh?

Mr. McElvaine asked Senator Thompson why not confer the increase of power, provided for in the amendment upon the State Board of Equalization, who receive but $4000 and the series of the state. He admitted that the assessors would have to go if the Legislature so willed.

BUS IS PROOF OF BAD FAITH.

Railway Specialist Decries "Jitney" Morals.

Capital's Benefit to City Forgotten, He Says.

While Motor Eyesores are Shock to Investors.

William A. Boland, specialist in sec-ond-hand railroads and former con-fidential adviser to Russell Sage, looks upon our fitney busses as fresh proof of his theory that a municipality has

"It is reasonable to expect," he said esterday at the Alexandria, "that the ame high standard of honesty and eciation of benefits, past and ent, should exist between a mupresent, should exist between a mu-nicipality and the corporations, as be-tween individuals. But in allowing the liney bus to operate on your streets, unregulated, or slightly so, the city is violating the implied assurance given by the franchises that the mu-nicipality will safeguard, so far as nicipality will safeguard, so far as reasonable, the investment made by the franchise purchaser or holder.

"Why, I remember," Mr. Boland continued, "the comments of representatives of eastern financial interests when H. E. Huntington purchased the various car lines here and began their amalgamation into a system which, for its time, was better equipped than any other in the country. They said he was discounting the future, that he could never expect to get his money out of the venture.

future, that he could never expect to get his money out of the venture.

BENEFITS FORGOTEIN.

"Whether he has or has not is not important here. What I wish to emphasize is that Mr. Huntington, in pioneering in street railway construction here along larger lines than formerly, conferred certain benefits on this city—benefits now forgot by those in power who allow streets to be congested by antiquated machines, with resultant loss of revenue to the street car company. For one thing, it can scarcely be questioned that one of the street car company. For one thing, it can the street car company. For one thing, it can be congested by antiquated machines, with the clusted lines ahould ploneer the way along possible lines of growth.

"If Mr. Huntington and those associated with him," and Mr. Boland brought down his hand with a whack on the table in front of him, 'are not entitled to consideration as the conferrers of past benefits on this city, then I ask what inducement does this or any other city offer capital for the expenditure of money on public utilities? It seems to me a case of throat-cutting, with the city setting the example."

Here to look over the field of possible investment in the interest of a coterie of eastern capitalists, and himself several times a millionaire, Mr. Bolands outburst on the jitney was, as he phrased it, the outgrowth of just wrath.

BUS AN EYESORE.

"Your jitney is not a thing of beauty, with its general air of an old shoed down at the heel, and passengers hanging onto the running boards. To me it is an eyesore, a blot on the streets of this city. It is more—an advertisement to the world that heraphylic goes.

"Why!" and Mr. Boland emphasized wery word, "some of us had the idea that California was all sunshine and other roads and old missions and proceparity and the process and old missions an

and Stations.

Has Seven Levels, and Miles of Passageways, Halls, Chapels, Hailway and Stations.

[Manchester Guardian:] The fighting in Galicia has reached Wieliczka, some six miles from Cracow. Wieliczka is an interesting town, not for what is in it but for what is under it. The salt mines there are the greatest in the world, and the most wonderful. They form what amounts to an underground town, which might have suggested to Jules Verne his underground community in "The Children of the Cavern" (though, if memory rightly serves, Jules Verne's cavern was in Scotland.) The Wieliczka salt mine is two and one-half miles long from east to west and 1950 yards wide from north to south. It has seven levels, the lowest being nearly a thousand feet deep, and is entered by eleven shafts. The different levels are connected by flights of steps hewn out of the rock salt. In the mine there are chapels, tramways, a railway and railway station, a ballroom (with a regular orchestra,) and several other halls, all hewn out of the rock salt with elaborate architectural decoration. For a hundred years the mine has belonged to the Austrian government. It employs a thousand work people and turns out $6,000 tons of salt a year.

There are sixty-five miles of pony tramways and twenty-two miles of railway in the Wieliczka salt mines. All these lines and the principal passages or "streets" meet in a sort of railway in the Wieliczka salt mines. All these lines and the principal passages or "streets" meet in a sort of central cavern. Here is a central railway station, with spacious waiting-rooms, offices, and an excellent refreshment-room all complete, all hewn out of the rock salt, and looking, according to one description, "more like a summer pavilion than a railway station, with its latticed galleries and stately pillars gleaming white and iridescent." This is comparatively modern of course. The oldest "building" in the more modern but equality elaborate Chapel of St. Cunigund, which is entered down forty-six salt steps. The chapel is fifty yards long A miners orchestra plays regularly in this hall not only for the dances but for the entertainment of visitors, for the mine is one of the wonders of the world and is much visited by tourists. There are other big halls in the mine has a small or the mine has a small or the same way. The mine has

DEAD FISH COVER SEA; TRAGEDY IN DEPTHS?

Floating Millions of Grotes que Denizens of Valleys and Plains of Ocean Give Color to Theory that Rending of Sea Floor Caused Unprecedented Waves Along Coast. Strange Specimens Brought Ashore.

Cost fishermen, who are close observers of marine conditions and well acquainted with the sea and its moods, advance the theory that a predominating cause of such tremendous breakers was some gigantic subterranean disturbance—a mighty convulsion that has upturned or displaced a large section of the bottom of the sea—that a violent upheaval or sinking of a vast area of the sea floor has occurred.

One of the seafarers to note the unusual conditions that have existed is W. C. De Chevrleux, whose fishing boats ply from Los Angeles Harbor, in the channel waters and about the adjacent islands. During the past week, in returning from fishing banks off Santa Cruz Island, when about twenty miles west of Point Magu, Mr. De Chevrieux states, he sailed into a wast school of dead fish which extended for miles. Under the proposed constitutional amendment the Governor appoints the tax commis-sion, and the commission does the sion, and the commission does the rest.

Senator N. W. Thompson of Alhambra, administration leader in the upper house, who introduced the amendment, appeared before the assembled assessors yesterday and asked support for the measure appropriating $75.000 at the disposal of the Governor on the ground that the present "Progressive" State administration is hard pressed for funds and something must be done and done immediately toward changing the tax system, or the State will wake up millions in the hole. After Senator Thompson had explained the purposes of the pet Johnsonian measure, the eight assessors, Jeff McElvaine of the State Board of Equalization, and County Tax Collector Welch tore the amendment to bits and gave the Senator to understand that it would be "commission form of government gone mad"—in the words of M. M. Moulton of San Diego, president of the Assessors' Association of Southern California.

Padres-What Did Diggers Find?

Padres—What Did Diggers Find?

Vandals in search of the holy treasures that were buried in the bosoms of the dead monks of San Fernando have left sad trails through the ancient ruins of the mission within the past week. Where the floor of the old sacristy has been firm and smooth to the feet of pligrims for a century, there is a great hole. It leads into the depths that were consecrated as the resting place for the padres that died.

Who the shouls are, when they came, or why they operated as they did, are unanswered queries. Also it is unknown whithey perclous depths, but it is practically certain that they were searching the grace of the place in the breasts of the faithful some of the soulen ornaments used for religious section of the tight of the soulen ornaments used for religious sections. GUIDED BY CHART.

From a fragment of paper left in the depths of the tunnel it appears probable that a chart may have been the guide of the ghouls in the midnight labor, as legends abound of great treasures that were in the hands of the padres, and that the treasures were buried close to the altar because people of the Catholic faith would not dare to loot there.

It is the theory of O. Hansen, a caretaker on the grounds, who is patiently nursing a little park in the shadows of the chapel, that a gang of men came in the night and went about their labors like grave-diggers, with shielded lanterns and pick and shovel. An old pan used by them to draw the dirt to the surface was left behind.

They were familiar with the ground, for they sought the sacristy for their operations. In their exploration they withdrew at least five tons of earth and stowed it behind a concealing ruin. The tunnel extends seventy-five feet through the very heart of the ground chosen for God. It swerves under the altar and then rushes to a tell-tale end twenty feet beyond the altar walls, where a caveling ave the alarm that the mad moles had been at work.

It is possible they secured a treasure, for there were things of great value in possession of the ancient mission. The San Fernando Mission was one of the greatest in the State, founded in 1797 by Father Vicente de Santa Maria. It was built to honos St. Ferdinand, the third King of Spain to bear that name.

BARELY ESCAPE AWFUL DEATH.

Family Overcome by Deadly Monoxide Gas.

They Become "Funny" and do not Realize Peril.

Husband Tells of Terrifying Experience.

Overcome by monoxide of gas, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott and their two children and a maid servant of No. 4217 Pasadena avenue had a most terrifying experience and close escape from death early Friday evening. The timely arrival of a physician saved four of the persons from complete

The near-tragedy was the result of burning gas for several hours in a bathroom which has not been equipped with a vent pipe. When his children went to take their bath, Mr. Scott securely closed all of the win-dows and doors of the house, as a precaution against the cold air and this fumes to the home. As each member and fresh water was supplied for all, the gas was kept burning from 6 o'clock until after 9 o'clock. How monoxide of gas effects a hu-

How monoxide of gas effects a hu-man cannot be described more clearly than by the recital of his experience by Mr. Boott. "I was sitting in a rocker reading a newspaper when the servant girl opened a door and asked ms if I had ever heard George sing. It occurred to ms that she was acting strangely, but I immediately forgot the incident. I never felt more contented or happier in my life and resumed my reading.

incident. I never felt more contented or happier in my life and resumed my reading.

"A few moments later the servant re-entered the room and said she believed she would sing George's song to me. I told her she had better go on to bed and she started away but again returned. This time she told me she felt queer. 'My hands feel as big as hams,' she said. 'Do I look like an elephant? My ears feel just the same size as one of those big animals.'

"I enjoyed her foolish talk to the utmost and I am sure that a Chinese full of opium could not have been more completely at peace with the whole world than I was. I did not realize that I was slowly being asphyxiated, and in fact, was feeling so good that I did not care.

"A little later, when the servant fell on the floor and rolled under the table I did not move. It all seemed perfectly natural to me. I remember seeing my wife in an adjoining room combing her hair and also her falling into a chair. My first realization of the true situation came when Mrs. Scott fell from the chair and struck her head on the sewing machine. She screamed and this brought me to my senses long enough to comprehend our peril.

"I leaped to my feet, picked up a is wild man up the street for a physician."

Mr. Scott, attired only in his underclothes, dashed frantically into the home of Dr. George A. Laubersheimer, No. 123 East Avenue 43, and, still half-crazed by the gas, commanded the physician to hurry to his home. "Take your hypodermic outfit and get there at once or I'll kill you," was the order received by the physician and he lost no time in obeying.

Arriving at the Scott residence, Dr. Laubersheimer found Mrs. Scott and the servant girl outstretched on the floor and the two children lying across a bed. All were unconscious and near death. Injections of strychnia and nitro glycerine revived them, but they were not pronounced out of danger until early in the morning. Mr. Scott. whose power of resistance was sufficient to throw off considerable of the poison, assisted the physician in treating the women and children.

"It was a most terrible experience," said Mr. Scott yesterday. "I am satisfied that all of us would have died but for the screams of my wife. Had we been asphyxiated the chances are but for the screams of my wife. Had we been asphyxiated the chances are we would not have been discovered until the oder of decayed flesh attracted attention, for we have been in the neighborhood only a short time and it is not likely that anyone would have broken into the house to inquire about us."

PLANS FOR WAREHOUSE.

The Harbor Commission yesterday favorably passed upon the new plans for the proposed six-story warehouse at the Municipal Dock No. 1, on the outer harbor. Previous plans had been approved by the Municipal Art Commission, but the changes presented in the new plan present a plainer structure, whereby from $2000 to $3000 can be saved. The new plans were referred to the Art Commission for its consideration.

The shooting of Samuel Doak was the expression of an insane delusion Dr. Doak conceived against his brother. He believed that Samuel was seeking to steal from him his little daughter, Claudia, 2 years old. living with her mother in Salem. The insanity was of long standing, according to Doak's mother.

After shooting his brother and Mertz, the crazed dentist rushed to the middle of the street, with revolver in hand, and stopped a passing automobile. Jumping to the running board, he aimed his revolver at George Sanborn, the driver, and ordered him to drive as fast as he could. While standing there he fired three shots without wounding fleeing spectators. He left the automobile at Eighth and Flower streets and went to his home, where he was arrested. Samuel Doak died the following day.

Try This If You

The charges contained in my sermon last Sunday evening are vouched for by the most reputable newspapers, ministers of the gospel, college presidents and journalists of the land, among which are the Brooklyn Eagle, the Washington Post, the Northwestern Christian Advocate, W. T. Ellis, editor of the Continent Magazine: Rev. J. J. Ross, pastor of the Jamesstreet Baptist Church in Hamilton, Canada; Evangelist Biederwolf, Dr. William G. Moorehead of the United Presbyterian Theological Seminary and others too numerous to mention.

You say Pastor Russell does not want money, resulting from damages suits, and yet he sued the recombination of the finger tips.

Eagle, the Washington Post and Rev. J. J. Ross, and the only damages he has won so far was $1 from the Washington Post. Mr. Russell is reported to be a good business man and we can readily understand that he finds other methods of finance more profit, able than damage suits.

I beg to decline, therefore, your challenge for debate in Trinity Auditorium for three reasons:

(1.) The logical place for you to be back there and got a reputation as a debater and then return to Los and Revertising to the scalp will stop intantity and your hair will be fluffy, the back in Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, where both yourself and Pastor Russell are better known. If you will go back in Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, where both yourself and Pastor Russell are better known. If you will go back in Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, where both yourself and Pastor Russell are better known. If you will go to back there and got a reputation as a debater and then return to Los and Revertising. We do not care to make any contributions for that purpose.

(2.) The public forum is not the proper place to try a moral issue of this kind.

(3.) Being good advertisers, it is a particular to the proper place to try a moral issue of this kind.

(4.) Being good advertisers, it is a good to be an expelience of the story which we give without guardivent town the well known hymn.

R ESPECTING A PARTY.

We have received an invitation to a party next Saturday night and the bid has been beautifully etched. It strikes us that been beautifully etched. It strikes us that this is a worth-while idea because the peo-ple who are invited and cannot go will yet get great pleasure from the form the ask-ing took. The spirit of anything is beau-tiful, but when it is clothed in a lovely fashion people always understand it better and enjoy it more. A high respect for form is not formality, but a love of beauty.

BELOVED PERSONALITY. A Memorial services were held in this city Friday for the late Fred A. Hines. He made a reputation as one of the first Ma-sons of America, but he could do this because of that inexplicable quality called ism; give him a smile of gladness and a hand of greeting; give him a heart of joy and a life of purpose; give him unselfishness and a splendid generosity—and whatever he touches he will transform with light, and wherever he goes the heart of the world will leap to meet him.

CHAPEAU BOUGE. We wish we could figure out this.
The red hat has become a sort of cardinal rage among the women this spring. Sometimes we think it is like a person without any religion wearing a cross, and so times it strikes us like a redbird in the marshes singing of the nest of his mate among the reeds. Let us all be satisfied that it becomes both blonde and brunette and that it bears the stamp of gladness, it is a passing fancy, it is true, but it is unite the handest face, of the second and quite the happiest fancy of the season, and when it passes it will leave in its wake a glow of pleasant memories.

COMRADES OF MAN. Frank J. Walker, a newspaper man who died last week, had a big hand in establishing Yosemite as a national park. He was a friend of the big trees and thought it worth his while to fight for their preservation. In a dozen lives he could not have served humanity better. Men need the comradeship of the trees. To pass under a great tree is to receive a blessing. The shadow of a tree is a benediction. If every man alive planted one tree he would leave the earth a blessed reminder of himself. It is good that our forethought should overshadow a generation and that our love for our fellows should one day spread green branches to shelter them:

DROTECTION DEFINED. Boss Barnes of New York, who has often been described, by those who are disinclined to credit him with integrity, as a ravenous wolf who mingles with the Repub lican lambs for the purpose of eating them up alive, made a speech at the annual dinner of the Albany County Republican Club, in which he compressed into a few sentences the philosophy and the purposes of the Republican policy of protection. He

"The American policy of protection, properly explained, means that each tariff schedule should be so high that no American industry can be destroyed by foreign competition, and so low that no American industry can, through it, secure abnormal profits."

If Mr. Barnes had talked for hours he ould not have made a Detter exposition of the Republican position.

THE GREAT SIN.

No man can help the sun shining and no man can help having a bald head, but when the two get together they make a considerable illumination. Bald-headed men are sensitive, as is proved by the fact that they deny it. They make jokes about them selves and even organize an association to the South and in the Middle West there is a lovely green plant with a leaf like a fern nd a blossom as sweet as a wild rose which they call the sensitive vine. A baldheaded man isn't exactly like that, but he is a little like it. You may say there is no to it as there is to lots of heads, with or without hair. What we started out to remark was the sin of going to church Sunday morning and spending all of one's time watching to see whether the sun through the stained glass windows would stream directly across a deacon's bald head. This is not the unforgiveable sin, but it is the next thing to it. Oh, well, the world is full

FFAIRS IN MEXICO.

The Mexican situation has not changed materially since the day when Diaz departed from the country he had governed so long. Madero, Huerta, Carranza, Zapata, Carza, Gutierrez, have each in turn moved around "in the flerce light that beats about throne." They have come "like shadows and like shadows departed," and now Villa olds the stage. Excepting Zapata, who never pretended to e anything but a bandit pure and simple, all ese provisional Presidents claimed to be grarian constitutionalists whose purpose was to restore peace and promote civilizaand, incidentally, cutting the throats of those who differed with them.

'illa is said to have lost a battle at Guadlaiars. If so, it is his first substantial rerse, and given anything like an even hance he will be apt to march again to victories, for whatever may be his faults or deficiencies, he is surely a great soldier.

OUR SELF-APPOINTED KEEPERS.

The self-appointed keepers of their brothers and sisters are again, as usual, legislating "thou shalt nots" for the good people of Kansas. As busily as spiders and just as useful, they are weaving restrictions.

ast as useful, they are weaving restrictions just as userul, they are weaving restrictions and limitations. To watch the reformers, one would think there is no such thing as decency and good taste in the world—at least, not outside the little cotorie of smug Pharisees, vaingloriously asserting that they are sold as other neonle and setting about to tell. not as other people, and setting about to tell you and me what we shall do and what we shall not do. If this keeps up, we may all soon find ourselves enmeshed in such a tangle of prohibitions as the notorious blue laws of New England. The reformers set it down as the basis for a working principle that none but themselves have the intelligence to decide what they want to eat, to drink, to wear, to read or to see; and the reormers are not content with deciding for themselves—they are determined to decide for us as well. One of these days we may and then every patch in the country will be ripped out and our old-fashioned New Eng-land dinner will have to do without its most

Nor have we been guilty of exaggeration.

Nor have we been guilty of exaggeration.

The folly of the reformers may not be exaggerated. The Bocotians are no longer to be taken as the epitome of foolishness—and we find only this consolation amid the monumental silliness: the reformers are logically working out their own damnation. Calfilke, they are choking themselves by their own rone.

We present this delectable instance for the contemplation of those who sympathize with the politically too-plous, and ask what our lovely native daughters would say if the Sacramento law factory should decide that none of them could wear earrings, or make use of cold cream or a dab of powder on a warm day when "he" is coming and it is em-inently desirable to look as attractive as pos-

Yet the only reason that our lovely maidens are not facing such a contingency is that they are not living in Kansas—the State that sets the pace for the tagging imitators of California. A bill has been introduced to make Kansas women under 45 years of age guilty of a misdemeanor if they wear ear ornaments or treat their faces with cosmetics Face powder, perfume, false hair and bleaching materials for the hair are among the articles that bill forbids women to use; and it also provides that women may not have their ears pierced or wear earrings in public places or at private parties.

We are rather inclined to the opinion that the nation is provided with enough laws when our professional statute jobbers can find nothing better to do than model uni forms for school children, as was proposed at the former session of the California Leg-islature, and to designate the gewgaws that women may or may not wear, as is being done at the present session of the Kansas Legislature.

Many people have the suspicion, and have had it for some time, that reformers intro-duce freak bills for the publicity they get. A reformer, like a chorus lady, must keep his or her name before the public.

It was perhaps well enough for the Puri-tans to make ridiculous laws when they considered the devil was a formidable gentle man who snooped around on wintry nights and carried off bodily any women that tried to make themselves beautiful. The Puri-tans were taking what they believed were wise precautions for the physical and spirit-ual benefit of their wives and daughters. their own prejudices and hobbies universal. If the Kansas and California reformers did not like turnips-as well as most other things to eat-the chances are that the remainder of us would have to fight to allow our favorite vegetable to remain in the gar-

There are some of us who like to see women look pretty, and we don't particu-larly care to see women indifferent to their appearance. Let the fish-blooded reformer merely turn his head away when the charming maiden with twinkling earrings comes gaily tripping fresh from the "beauty par lor"—just as some other people do when they see the dowdy woman swaggering along in a way to delight the heart of Kansas reformers.

We fancy we must reconcile ourselves to having the reformers and their meddlesome fingers with us until such a time as some genuine and sensible reformer comes along and passes a law requiring everybody to mind his or her own business, and to keep his or her own personal prejudices, likes and dislikes to himself or herself. May God speed that day!

T HE BLUE SKY LAW.

Commissioner of Corporations Carna han, whose duty it will be to enforce the blue sky law, promises a picnic for all good corporations, and a woodshed discipline for all unrighteous entities. He will allot to each corporation a nose that the disgruntled investor can pull. He will develop on each a capacious breech that can be kicked by dissatisfied stockholders, and every facility will be offered to the public to damn the soul of the mining entity that distributes assessments instead of dividends.

Commissioner Carnahan, in enforcing the promises to wander far from straight and narrow path laid out by those who enacted it. He says in his charming, naive manner that he "thinks that corporations intending to engage in a speculative venture should be allowed to operate.' He does not define what kind of a venture will be considered "speculative." He will not require a mining company to have a hole in the ground, but it must own a place where it has a right to dig a hole. A real estate corporation that is going to build a road to a tract of land it intends to buy, on which tract it intends to build houses, to be sold for $1 down and 10 cents a month until paid for, does not intend to engage in a eculative venture. It intends to engage in a dead sure thing, and the blue sky law will not be enforced against it by the commissioner.

A corporation to run a roulette game at the San Diego fair may be considered as a speculative venture, for the investor in chips nay possibly beat the game.

The blue sky law is meddlesome and use-People who patronize bucket shops, and lotteries, and church raffles, and realestate skin games may need guardians, but it should not be the business of the State to guard them against their own folly. There is one man that will be benefited by

RESTORATION OF POLAND. "And have I lived to see thee sword Uprise again, immortal Polish land!" The progenitors of the Poles, originally established on the Danube, were driven thence by the Romans to the still wilder wilderness of Central Europe, settling finally among the virgin forests and impenetrable es of the basin of the upper waters of the Oder and the Vistula.

Centuries passed, and the Poles, who had no commerce, but were huntsmen, herds-men and tillers of the soil, living in looselyconnected communities, were compelled by the pressure of rapacious neighbors to combine for mutual defense. They wrested a vast province from the Moravian empire. but, though growing in power and in the arts of civilization, they were regarded by the Germans in the west as Cortez and Pizarro regarded the Aztecs and the Incas.

In the tenth century the Poles accepted Christianity, but their conversion was political rather than religious. Under Boleslaus against Germany, Boleslaus III divided Poland into eight principalities and gave them to his sons and their descendants. These quarreled among themselves, and in 200 years Poland lost all political significance and became an easy prey to her neighbors.* During this time Pomerania freed herself from the Polish suzerainty.

The history of Poland during the seven teenth and eighteenth centuries is a his tory of national decadence and factional dissension. In 1772 a large portion of Poland was partitioned between Russia and Prus sia, and in 1773 Austria was admitted to a share of the spoll. Hope for a season bade the world farewell.

And Freedom shrieked when Kosciuszko

In 1791 what was left of Poland was con verted into a hereditary limited monarchy In 1830 Russia seized all of Poland except the minute republic of Cracow, and in 1846 Austria, with the consent of Europe, seized Cracow, and the very name of Poland dis appeared. In 1863-64 the Poles revolted unsuccessfully and the national history of Po-

Winter, in his work on Poland, in answer to the question of what have the Roles ever done? says: "It was a Pole, Nikolaus Copernicus, who first taught that the sun was the center of the solar system, and thus founded modern astronomy. It was John Sobleski, another Pole, who defeated the Turks at Vienna, and by that victory stopped an invasion of the followers of Mohammed which threatened to overrun all Europe. Thaddeus Kosciuszko, a native of Poland, enlisted with the American forces under Washington, and proved one of his most effective helpers. He was given a vote of thanks by Congress, after the Revolutionary War was over, and returned to his own troubled country to help fight her battles. John Huss, the forerunner of Luther, and the real herald of the Reformation, although classed as a Bohemian, was a Slav; and th Poles and Bohemians are first cousins. Other Poles in later years have likewise distinction. Helen Modjeska the eminent tragedienne, was of Polish birth. Henry Sienkiewicz, the author of "Quo Vadis," is of the same nationality, as is Paderewski, the eminent planist and composer. Many other famous writers and mu-been Polish by birth.

The cablegrams give us no information concerning the renaissance of Poland beyoud the statement, not fully authenticated, that Germany and Austria have agreed to restore to Poland the sovereignty of the country of which they despotled her finally in the last century. If, as is possible, Russia shall make a similar concession, Poland may resume her ancient boundaries, her ancient independence, and march in the vanguard of the nations.

The grouchy merchant whose head's always sore, is sure the destroyer of peace in his store. "I pay out good wages, the best in the town, and always," he rages, "my salesmen fall down. THE PATH TOWARD TREASON

BY DAVID STARR JORDAN.

N THE present juncture it is vitally no essary that we of the United States sh keep out of the quicksands into which Eu-rope is alipping and must not become blind partisans of any nation or nations, the real questions at issue being those of right and wrong. It is not in the interest of our nation as a whole that any citizen or group of citizens should try to break our attitude of strictest neutrality. In that direction lies the path toward treason.

The vast majority of our people, we be lieve, uphold the President in his mainteance of rigid neutrality. The same major nance of rigid neutrality. The same majority condemns, for the most part, the attack on Belgium and the array of ex poat facto pleas by which this attack has been explained or justified. We cannot listen to word quibbles in face of obvious facts. We recognize that in these matters our heads stand in some danger from our hearts. Our neutrality, based on common sense and political wisdom, may be at the mercy of our emotions.

It is certainly true that some of our people would go into this war, through sympathy with Belgium or with France. Those who are so minded are bound by no ties of blood or citizenship to the allies; they have no official connection with any of their governments and so far as we know they n. official connection with any of their gov-ernments, and, so far as we know, they have no common purpose or agreement among themselves. Their feeling is that of the Knight Errant; but for knight errantry by force of arms across the sea our nation has little fitness. We may help the suffer-ing—laying up treasure in Europe as in heaven—but demogracy is a form of gov-ernment adapted for minding its own busi-ness.

ernment adapted for minding its own business.

There is another group, perhaps not larger but more vociferous, which wishes at every hand to antagonize England whenever any British action is questioned. We are met by the effort to widen the difference, to give it international importance and to force the idea of armed resentment into the background of discussion.

It is not wise to attach too much importance to this. The sensational person is always eager for material; but we may keep in mind the policy avowed in 1912 by Gen. won Bernhardt and undertaken by Admiral Brensing and himself to create among the Germans in foreign lands solid blocks of people who would act as a unit in a crisis in the interests of the home government and under its direction.

In the propaganda of German sentiment these groups are within their rights. Should, however, it be part of the plan to stir up differences between the United States and other nations, it may be necessary for us to inquire sharply where European citizenship leaves off and citizenship in America begins.

We must not forget that madness is in-

We must not forget that madness is in-fectious; that the fury of the old world induces hysteria in the new. Hence the in-sistent need for patience, deliberation and consideration in all our international af-fairs. For us to lose our balance for an in-consideration in all our international arfairs. For us to lose our balance for an instant may be to throw away everything, as Europe has already shown.

If we can establish any guiding principle in these matters, it ought to be this: Beiligerents have no rights that neutrals are bound to respect. The right of way belongs to the law-abiding. But practically we cannot enforce this rule, and the problem reduces itself to this: Let the beiligerents seize, condemn. do whatever they dare: protest against their meddling, make up the case for The Hague and bear the inflictions insensate war imposes on us with as good grace as we can. Never think of striking back; never talk of resentment; feed the starving; bind up the wounds of the mangled and lay up treasures in Europe and in heaven as well. It is for us to speak, when we must, in terms of peace.
What our grievances, if any, may be some What our grievances, if any, may be some future tribunal may determine.

For Even Greater Values Will

Be Prominent

—Truth, Courtesy, Liberality and Values—these have been the guiding principles of this business. Principles that have made possible the great and new structure nearing completion.

—The two photographs show the building 19 years ago and today—they tell a story of business progress and growth and volume. But it's the principles of the business that have made the true march of Progress true and certain.

-Now in this second week we are to emphasize more than ever, our foundation stone "Value."

—The Buyers say these offerings are better than was presented in the first week. When you read the great opportunities that have been assembled, you'll agree with the buyers.

—It's to be a wonderful shopping week. Come early and often and resolve to lay in a big supply of the merchandise available at these prices.

—More of those big white cotton batts, just one required for a comfort. They open up into one large sheet. Size 72x84 inches. No phone or mall orders. Limit of two to a customer. None to dealers. Buy these Monday at 35c. Aisle 8, Section C.

mmission to form an auxiliary of women with one representative from each county. These women were to form the entertainment committee, to act as hostesses at functions at the Southern California Building or to name a prominent woman from each county for the purpose.

The minutes of the commission show that the point was raised at one time over "employees" or their wives acting as hostesses.

acting as hostesses.

"Wealthy and influential people come to the Southern California Building," said one of the commissioners, "and we didn't think it would be proper to have them entertained or received by an employee, acting as "hostess."

"Nostess."

When the social functioning started, several of the women became embroiled in petty jealousies. When Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, selected as the Los Angeles member of the auxiliary, went to the exhibit to lecture on Los Angeles county, she objected to participating in receptions where Mrs. Charles L. Wilson, wife of the general manager, an employee, acted as hostess.

A social warfare was precipitated. Women vied with each other to get prominence in the press, and the result was that when prominent society or club women of the various counties were asked to act as hostesses, they dolled twant to become entangled in the unsavory situation.

Government Will First Try to Sapply Those Listed With Johs Before Taking Any More.

The soft pedal is to be put on the operations of the labor department of the local immigration office, recently installed by orders of the officials of the Department of Labor in Washington, to bring Johs and the men together.

Until further orders no more applications will be received by Joseph Conaty, who has been placed in charge of the work by Capt. Conneil.

The reason for this temporary stoppage of operations is the fact that there are about 700 applications for work of every kind, and it has been deemed better policy to try to place some of these men, if possible, than to clutter up the records with as many more applicants.

The first 500 blanks received from Washington were exhausted the first two days, and about 200 applications have been written out on blank paper, for the requisition for additional blanks has not yet been honored.

The result of the work so far done, indicates that a large percentage of the applicants do not really want employment, belonging to the L.W.w. section and only eager to exploit some new activity. There has been evidence of an attempted bear raid on Amalgamated Oil stock the past few days on the exchange. The bid prive yesterday showed a sharp decline, but no sales were recorded, and the asked diotation at the close was but little under that of the previous day.

Rumors to the effect that the company's wells in Fullerton have been producing a large quantity of water were in circulation, but are absolutely denied by local representatives of the company. It is understood, however, that the low prices of oil have exercised some effect on the earnings of the company. The present fuel oil price, f. o. b. in Los Angeles, has declined, about 15 cents since the outbreak of the war.

Lane at Sacran

President Lane of the Board of Public Utilities has been spending several days in Sacramento and San Francisco, In conference with the members of the State Railroad Com-members of the claim mission.

The local board believes that the work of fixing rates for the public utilities of Los Angeles for the next fiscal year cannot be assumed by the State Railroad Commission, in accordance with recent changes in the Constitution, in time to have that body make the rates so that they might so into effect with the beginning of the new fiscal year. Therefore, the local board is proceeding, as usual, to collect the proper data on which to fix rates.

The entire situation is being laid before the State Railroad Commission by President Lane, and its advice is being sought as to the proper method of procedure under existing method of procedure under existing circumstances.

The recent change in the Constitution provides that the State board shall have such powers to fix rates for municipalities' public utilities as the Legislature may provide. Any provision of the present Legislature would not become effective in time to admit of the State board fixing rates that would be put in force with the beginning of the fiscal year of 1915-1916.

MINNESOTA PEOPLE BASK IN THE SUN.

ANNUAL PICNIC HELD YESTER-DAY IN BEAUTIFUL PARK AT EASTLAKE.

The Minnesota piculo attracted several thousand people to Eastlake yesterday and it was but necessary to look at the crowd to realize that they were enjoying themselves. The day was a most delightful one and the several headquarters were the centers of enthusiastic bunches of old neighbors and friends throughout the day, and they seemed loth to leave even when the day was well spent. Following the picule luncheon, a platform meeting was held, presided over by J. C. Belding, vice-president of the Minnesota Society. Addresses were delivered by E. E. Winterer, Councilman Conwell, Councilman Wheeler, Sherman Pease, F. H. Franklin and others. The crowd joined in singing the "Minnesota Song:" there was a cornet sole and several other entertaining features.

A number of the county booths had been constructed with more than usual care and committees of ladies presided over them to register their names. Most of the counties, however, were content with a card nailed to a tree and a book hanging to a string.

COMPANIES RECORD.

Just what proportion of the building in this city during the past ten years has been due to the building companies it is impossible to say; but certainly a large share of it may be credited to their activities. A large part of the south and southeast sections of the city consists of tracts opened up in this way. The Moneta avenue district and Rodgers Park are examples. The Los Angeles Investment Company, the pioneer in selling on "easy" terms, has, during its sixteen years of existence, haid out a number of tracts in this part of the city. The California Real Estate & Building Co., Commonwealth Home Builders and Southwest Land Company are among the companies oper-

HOUSING PROBLEM.

While the city's housing conditions are not perfect, this opening up of new districts and the steady increase of new houses, sold at a price that placed them within the reach of even the day laborer, have prevented congestion. If street work that has been done by the building companies had been left to individual taxpayers and the city, much of it would still be undone. The question of assessments is serious in buying property anywhere, and is often prohibitive where improvements are not already comimprovements are not already com-pleted, as far as they can ever be the terms made possible by the companies.

The opening up of large tracts by the building companies has not only increased the valuation of the property improved, but has added to the value of all contiguous territory. Street car extensions secured for the benefit of the subdivision have served territory that would have otherwise been slow in securing service. Sewers, water mains, gas and electric service furnished for these tracts have also supplied surrounding lands.

But the greatest economic advantage is the conversion of renters into property cwners. The man or woman who owns a home, however small the equity may be, is a better citizen. Automatically, his interest in his own neighborhood and in civic affairs generally increases, and he takes on a stability and self-respect which increase his value to himself and to the State.

The advantages to the individual scarcely need to be enumerated. Improvements are not already completed, as far as they can ever be completed, in a rapidly-growing city. Herman Janss stated before the Industrial Commission last fall that statistics show Los Angeles has a larger tistics show Los Angeles has a larger opportion of wage-earners owning homes than any other city in this country. This fact is largely due to the terms made possible by the companies.

The opening up of large tracts by the building companies has not only the building companies has not only the building companies has not only the manual companies has not only the second completely paid for. REAL STOFF.

For the story of "Gen. Buck Warrens" is really the story of Col. H. C. de Mille, of the Confederate army, grandfather of the director, Cecil de Mille, as told them by their grandmother, and the Warren home is the old De Mille honestead in Virginia. So that we catch intimate glimpses of phases of the great national struggle which we never could have known had not "The Warrens" been written from the inside.

Seldom is it given bne in genius an opportunity to tell; in story and drama the tale of those best loved. Seldom is a photodrams thought over, talked over and dreamed over as has been "The Warrens." (Though William de Mille, when Behasco produced his successful stage drawa, sought no lasky and the two De Milles held-lasky and the two De Milles held-

COSTLY.

This photodrama has the distinction of being the most expensive ever produced for release under a regular programme. As an example of the amounts spent it is stated that the burning of the supply train of fifty wagons and the use of the 2000 soldiers for two days, cost the Lasky company $15,000, while another scene which appears only as a vision of the battlefield (one of the most beautiful in the play, by the way) cost $6000.

In the present De Mille home in New York, occupied by the motor of the two well-known playwrights, were a number of pieces of furniture and family helricoms that were in the De Mille home in Virginia during the war, where the scenes of the play are laid. These were desired for the production, and finally after a request from Mr. Belasco himself, Mrs. De Mille, the elder, permitted them to be taken West for use in the picture.

At last the local composer is to have his chance. The Matines Musical Club has established a composers' creative department, an idea which has long been the ambition of the well-known tenor; Mr. E. B. Valenclub's hustling president, Mrs. James tine, violinist, and the U.S.C. Girls Henry Ballagh.

Henry Ballagh.

It all happened at the last regular meeting, and Fanny Dillon and Vernon Spencer will be in charge, with Mrs. Ballagh acting as the third of a committee of three which will passe on the compositions every so often.

The plan calls not only for the receiving of new work, and passing upon the same, but the securing of a publisher for compositions of merit, the ultimate goal being the founding of a big western music publishing house which in time shall rank with the old established firms in the East, which at present enjoy a monopoly in the publication of high-class music.

It is planned to have the first "tryout" on March 18, and the place, as well as the names of contributors, will be announced later. There will be medals for the prize winners in addition to the other services which the club hopes to render the really deserving.

Symphony Departure.

And speaking of popular concerts, reminds of the departure which the Los Arigeles Symphony Orchestra is about to make. From the platform, at the concert Friday afternoon, Dr. Bridge announced the plan, explaining that it was not intended that they should in any way interfere with the regular symphonies, but were designed to enable the general public to enjoy high-class popular programmes, played as only the symphony orchestra can play them. There will be more anent these concerts next week.

Quinn's Garrick.

Starting Monday, at Quinn's Garrick, the feature will be the film adaptation of the world-famous novel, "St. Elmo," by Augusta Evans. This is said to be a most elaborate contribution to the silent drama. It depicts the manners, costumes and customs of the days before the Civil War, when the chivalry of southern gentlemen was proverbial—when men settled their grievances on the field of honor and none could recklessly assail the fair name of a woman.

The cast is splendid and the settings all that can be desired. It is a production that is entitled to take first rank among modern love dramas.

New Spring Styles

Are you interested in the new figure lines for spring?

The new Redfern models are particularly attractive, not only for their own appearance but for their effect upon yours. The recent vogue for topless, boneless models has seriously affected many formerly beatiful figures, so much so that for the present season the Fashion Creators have come back to a shaped figure, and corsets are again designed to support and mold in graceful, helpful lines. Bust measurements are higher, and the natural curve of the waist is distinctly outlined. We take particular pleasure in calling your attention to the Redfern laced-front models. A patented protector under the lacings prevents any possible discomfort from this source, and the front clasps are ground down at the top to permit the utmost flexibility at the diaphragm. A plentiful use of elastic gores in the long skirts gives added freedom over hips.

Each Redfern Corset is carefully designed for a certain type of figure. We will be pleased to give you the advantage of our experience, and by careful personal fittings insure the right selection for your figure, whether your preference is for a Respect $3 corset or as high as $25.

Our fitters are very enthusiastic about the new Redferns and would like their friends to call and see the models.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Edmonston and son. Clifford, of Rivers. are home from an extended eastern visit to Montelair, N. J., and various points en route, including Washington and New Orleans.

In honor of Z. B. Cannen, president of the choir of the Methodischurch, the choir members tendered that worthy gentlemen an object supper at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Locke, Friday evening, read a docial given by the Elks in their beautiful clubrooms Friday evening, was one of the season's gayest affairs. Good music, dancing, cards and billiards made a delightful evaning for all participants.

Mrs. A. M. Chidester entertained a group of ladies Saturday afternoon in honor of her friend, Miss Eillian Pheips of Berkeley, Five Hundred was the diversion of the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartley Wade, who were married at Santa Ana last week, were guests in the home of Mr. Wade's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wade, early this week.

Mrs. Kittle G. Swain entertained charmingly with a four-course dinner in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Kathleen Swain, recently. The guests included Misses Barnhart, Elsie Bacon, Lucile Hull, Emma Nuffer and Lida McCold.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Grace Nuffer, daughter of North Friends avenue, to Clyde Schoemsker of Los Angeles, was made last week. The wedding date has not been announced, but the event will doubtless be one of the summer's society events.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton of Oilve drive have as their house guest this week Mrs. Addie Jones, a Michigan friend who is spending the winter in Southern California.

Mrs. Clara Pierce of North Milton avenue entertained the Linger Longer Club Wedgasday afternoon. Guests for the afternoon were Mmes. C. 8 Gibbs, Max Friebel, George Blackmun, J. H. Gwin, L. C. delectable of refreshments were served at a late hour ending a delightful evening. The Pomeroys and Osbornes are particularly happy when entertaining the younger people of the church, and are highly popular with them. Those enjoying their hospitality on Saturday evening were Miss

The ladies of the Altar Society of St. Joseph's Church were delightfully entertained at the suburban home of Mrs. J. A. Mas, the ladies motoring to the Fairhaven-avenue residence. The rooms were beautified with masses of fragrant violets, and the ladies spent part of the afternoon in beedlework, the results of their handiwork being intended for the benefit of the church. Plans were made over the sewing for a silver jubilee celebration to be held on March 2, to celebrate the twenty-fifth year of the priesthood of the beloved pastor, Father Rummelen, an honored guest of the fatternoon. During the hour especially devoted to social amenities, the ladies were invited to the spacious dining-room where an exquisitely appointed table awaited them. Spring Styles for Girls

-So new, so different, are these charming spring models from those of last season that they will recivify the fashion world. There's a dash, a smartness, to the suits, an allurement to the frocks that's impossible to describe. Tomorrow they will make their debut-our advance spring exhibit and sale of $25.00 suits and dresses.

The Belted Garb," a phrase synonymous to the new suits!

In fact you'll hardly get through the season without a belt of some tind. There'll be pockets and yokes, too—for the day of the Nor-olk in its many variations is once more in the ascendency.

—Black-and-white checks have come into their own again, and satin cloth, a new material, is also to the fore in fashiondom. Regulation weaves, staple and new shades, putty, sand, etc., are strong features in these new suits at $25.00. Try one on, step up to the mirror—a transformation that'll surprise you.

In the new dresses the belt line is high, invariably high!

Rows of shirring on some, the bias folds on others; fashion notes which beautify the long lines of the full flare skirts. In these which we show tomorrow, bodices and skirts are for most part of the same material—$25.00.

Odd fashion fancies are brought out in their trimming; particularly where vivid colors are used against backgrounds of putty, sand and twine shades. Materials are crepe de chine and taffeta. $25.00 never bought greater style-value, Miladi!

Our Preliminary Opening Spring Styles in Millinery!

In the new millinery styles for spring there is originality and charm—a breaking-away from old styles which lovers of the entirely new will like. There'll be a smart collection to greet you in our Millinery Salons tomorrow—our Preliminary Opening of Spring Styles. We think you could find no prettier in America.

There are no duplicates among the Spring Styles we'll show you at $12.50 to $22.50

There may be variations, but even these are rare. Among them is "Meadow Brook" model. It is of "Yedda" braid made even tore beautiful by the lisere finish. Quite new also are the hats of thin milan, and of rustic braids.

Turbans and small hats are in the majority—except for dress affairs, one or the other will be the correct hat to wear this Spring. It will be our pleasure to show you about the Millinery Salon at any time—and particularly so tomorrow.

Silk Stockings at 69c

-They are "seconds" of a widely advertised make known generally all over the country for their excellent wearing quali-ties, and regularly selling at $1.00 the pair in their first quality. Of a heavy grade of pure silk with double lisle tops, soles, toes and heels; in black mostly; all sizes.

Our February Sale of Lingerie Laces!

It's a Sale of extraordinary importance! Laces the world over have risen in price. Thousands of yards of lingerie laces, orders for which were given months and months ago, come to us at regulation cost, regardless of war conditions abroad. The economy to you is evident.

12 Yard Bolts Val. Laces 50c

-There are thousands of bolts of fine French and German vals. In assorted widthsmany with edges and insertions to match. If sold by the yard many would bring 121/2c and none are worth less than 61/4c a yard. Remember this when buying in quantities for

Also many at 85c and all are hand-loom vals. It's hard to distinguish them from the Belgian hand-made laces. Gooseneck and ring-dot styles in new patterns. They will launder well.

Armenian Val. Laces

The perfect edges of these dainty laces will stand continuous tubbing. They are in tiny French, German and Maltese designs and are different from those you ordinarily see—5c a yard. Hamburger's-Main Floor-Monday

Mechlin and French Vals. 15c

—A popular price for these vals. of the finer type—you've paid 20c and 25c for many not their equal in quality. There are single-thread Mechlin and double-thread French vala; edges and insertions to match, in white or cream. Patterns are new and very

German Vals. 72c

—With edges and insertions to match, and in assorted widths, 'twill be a delight to select trimming laces for spring and summer frocks and lingerie. Square, filet and Point d'Esprit effects—all new!

Normandie and Calais Laces at 75c

—Lingerie and trousseau laces for which you'd expect to pay $1.00 a yard. The wider ones—near and including 3-inch width, 75c a yard. Other edges and insertions 50c and 65c, according to width.

Beautiful Hand-Painted

China Plates

A special lot at a decidedly special price—a for-tunate purchase that enables the Great White Store to offer its patrons genuine hand-painted china plates at astenishing price reductions—

Silk Blouses at $5.95

-They are of heavy crepe de chine and decidedly unusual in design. There's a deep, five-inch tuck extending down the front and across the back, which gives a swagger little jacket effect that is very smart, as you'll see by the illustration. A narrow velvet ribbon crosses the front and the collar is one of the double, standing variety. This model in flesh, white, peach bloom, maize, putty and black; a beauty at $5.95.

Other New Blouses at $5.00 to $7.50

These came yesterday; some of crepe de chine, others of Georgette crepe, and crepe meteor. One striking model is embroidered with gold threads; another has a touch of old-new smocking, silk bobbinet lace and crochet buttons. Ever-so-many more just as pretty. Ask about them tomorrow or the first time you are downtown. Hamburger's Blouse Department, leads (Hamburger's-Second Floor-Monday)

$1 Silk Messaline, 69c

—If you are planning street, afternoon or party dresses let them be of this extra heavy silk messaline. It will last through the entire season. Practically all the new shades are included, for instance: Newport tan, Pip-ing Rock, gold, Rocky Mountain Blue, etc.; also black.

A sensation, this notable purchase-1500 yds. Silk-and-Wool 40-inch Canton Crepe at 35c —It usually sells for $2.00 a yard, you can imagine its weight and the beauty of its sheen. In wanted plain colors; and in foral effects that are extremely rich in coloring. The grounds of the floral silks match the shades of the plain silks. Among the new spring colors in the lot are putty, Rocky Mountain blue and Piping Rock—think of it, only 95c a yard!

40-in. Silk Voile, $1.75

—This indestructible voile is one of the most exquisite fabries woven. It has every appearance of chiffon—is every whit as sheer and fine, and its color tints are a revelation. It will bring about an economy in your spring sewing, especially—where you are planning evening apparel.

SOCIETY

glass pieces were presented to the bride and groom of a decade, and a merry round of diversions was enjoyed after felicitations had been expressed. Later a substantial supper, taken with them by the welcome invaders of the Rohrs home, was served, and merriment reigned supreme over the appetising repast. The event ended near the wee small hours, and wishes for many happy returns of the wedding anniversary mingled with the good-bys of the visitors as they departed for their homes.

Garden Grove.

Gowned in pale blue crepe de chine and carrying white carnstions and maidenhair ferna Miss Edith Steels was united in marriage on Thursday evening to William A. Abbott, the nnuptial event taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Steele. The brids's couple stood under a canopy of lilles and smilax as F. Falkenberg of Santa Ana intoned the marriage service. The bridesmaida Miss Martha Eccles and Miss Edith Pollard of Riverside, were gowned respectively in pink and blue messaline and carried bridesmaid's bouquets. A brilliant array of wedding gifts was displayed in the dining-room, where supper was served after the ceremony, which was preceded by the straing of Mendelssohn's wedding mafch, played by Miss Clare Steele, a sister of the bride. A honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara was made by automobile, and on return Mr. and Mrs. Abbott will reside in Garden Greve. Besides the parents of the bride and the officiating minister, those present included Mrs. S. Graham, Mrs. Elmer Launders, Mrs. N. T. Steele, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wella Mrs. D. Andrea Mr. and Mrs. C. OPRING SUITS COATS AND DRESSES

THE Harris and Frank announcements are always interesting. This reminder of spring should be more intensely so, for it offers unparalleled values

The garments illustrated are worthy of particular note. They were drawn by the artist just as taken from the boxes which carried them from New York.

Note the prices of these exquisite garments. The chin chin dress at $25; the English covert coat at $15.00; the tourist suit at $25 and Norfolk serge at $19.50. Remember, too, the charming suits and dresses priced at $19.50, $25, $29.50, $35, $37.50, $45 and $50. And coats, too, from $15 to $50.

We never forget that more ladies' suits are sold at $25 than at any other price. It is the most popular price of all, hence, we always give the greatest values in Los Angeles at this price.

Such magnificent values, such entrancing models, and all the fascinating colors. Sea sand, putty, bisque, chamois, oyster, battleship gray, Belgian, and army blue, and mourning black, in all the new and pleasing fabrics. Sizes from 14 to 46.

New Waists at $3.95

New waists are also here aplenty, and our experienced salespeople will be pleased to show you the latest in New York creations in smart waist specials. All exquisite designs you will want for this, the Exposition year. Hundreds of dainty waists—particularly the new three-in-one model that we are specializing on, priced at $8.95.

TIMES EXCURSION

Sight-Seeing at the Exposition

The second Times Panama-California Exposition Excursion will leave Los Angeles on Sunday morning, February 21st, at 7:30 o'clock, returning Monday night, the 22nd.

Come to see the Southland's splendid Fair! See it now in all its freshness! Observe the architectural beauty of its wonderful buildings! Join the merry throng on the "Isthmus." Harken to the big outdoor pipe organ and to the military band concerts! Read what one excursionist said of the last trip-"I've never been in a party where everything moved as smoothly, where attractions were as excellent and where schedule was as prompt as with this one. Not only will I go again, but I am going to insist that some of my friends go on the first opportunity that may be offered in the future." Another gentleman writes: "My folks returned from the San Diego Exposition this morning, having taken advantage of your generous excursion, and they are unable to express their gratification for the entertainment and attention from start to finish. No care rested on their shoulders, as every attention was given them, which exceeded their expectations, and it is their request that I send to you their thanks.

ENTRANCE TO CALIFORNIA STATE BUILDING.

The price of the ticket, for the entire trip, -which includes railroad fare between Los Angeles and San Diego and return; all meals, room at hotel, street car fare to and from the Fair Grounds, admission two days to the grounds, admission into the Santa Fe Painted Desert, and a fine boat ride on San Diego Bay.

THE firsts of a series of thimble parties to be given for the benefit of the local library was entertained by Mrs. Homer Lash Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Herbert Haakinson and Mrs. H. R. Stewart were the assisting hostesses. The afternoon pased quickly and pleasantly, many dainty bits of needlework being in evidence by the ladies assembled in spite of the rainy afternoon. Delicious cake and tea were served the guests. The fee of 15 cents was given and a pleasing sum was added to the library fund.

Many pennants, prettily combined with greenery, were used to decorate the parlors of the First Christian Church Friday evening last, when the Christian Endeavor Society of the church held a "college social." The affair proved one of the happiest events in the history of the society. Appropriate games and refreshments provided the jolly entertainment.

In celebration of the birthday anniversaries of her little son, Clark, and daughter, Alice, Mrs. Charles Green gave a juvenile party Saturday afternoon. Twenty-three little guests enjoyed the happy cocasion. Little Charles Ehrhorn won the prize in an amusing valentine contest.

Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehrhorn have as guests Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hellman of San Francisco.

Morosco.

The stars playing "The Arcadians" at the Morosco have hit the bullseye of public appreciation in their great musical comedy production, and the piece will enter on a second week to day. This will positively be the last week of the delightful musical play the Anderson players being under contract to produce a certain schedule of dine comedies.

"The Arcadians" has a clever plot and some brilliant lines, and a world of lovely music. The piece tells of an English restaurant keeper who falls from his aeroplane and lands in Arcadia, among its simple people, persuading them to go to London. The result is uproariously funny.

Heading the cast is the famous producer. George Marlon, who plays "Simplicitus." the Arcadian. Others of the brilliant cast are Percival Knight, May de Sousa. May Boley, Roland Botomley, Anne Wheaton, Harry Williams, Gypsy Dale, Fred McPherson, Casson Ferguson and Fred Herndon.

Welcome relief from the flood of ballroom dancers who have been monopolizing the vaudeville stage of late, are Alice Els and Bert French, who headline the week's bill at the Orpheum. They are well known here, having appeared last year in a spectacular ballet. This year they bring 'The Dance of the Temptress,' a brilliant and sensational production in which they dance on a sea of soap bubbles, a novelty of their own invention. The act is said to have set the East agog.

Included in this sale are the entire sample lines of three of New York's largest dress manufacturers. They came to us to sell at this ridiculously low price as a "thank you" for the thousands of dollars' worth of business which we give these firms every year.

-Now in turn we're offering them to you as a "thank you" for the patronage you have given us.

-But to the dresses! They're as new as the Spring itself—the very models that you'll find in stores the country over in a few weeks from now at double and more than double this price.

—Among the materials included are—

Chiffon taffeta Crepe meteor

Crepe de chine Crepe d'Amour Faille Francaise Gros de Londre

-The range of styles is wonderfully broad-for you remember they're samples and that means that only in a very few cases are there more than one or two of a kind.

—There's a range of sizes from misses' 16s to women's 44s.

-The color range embraces nearly every one of those shown on the new card for Spring-among them are these-

Nevada silver Rocky Mtn. blue Palm Beach sand Oregon green Delaware peach

Newport tan Midnight blue Battleship gray

We've arranged a great display of them in one of our windows. Be sure that you see it if you come down town today. It would well repay you to make a special trip even though you lived a long ways out.

In addition to the action of water and mud the men have suffered cruelly from the cold. The explorer, Dr. J. B. Charcot, son-in-law to the poet, Victor Hugo, has suggested the use of a very big shoe. Pelar explorers never found their shoes large enough, he said, and in all cases of frost-bitten feet the cause could be traced to the tightness of the footwear, confining the foot so that it cannot by its own exercise accelerate the circulation of the blood. This, Dr. Charcot thinks, is the difficulty with the French military shoe, which is so flat at the toe as not to permit the free movement of the toes nor the use of several pairs of socks. The tight lacing of shees, also, he points out, is frequent cause of frost-bitten feet.

SKOPYLE (Servia) Jan. 10 .- Seria, once the focal point of the Eugives ample evidence of having borne her just proportion of the sacrifices of the nations. Suffering on all sides is intense, but the spirit of the troops is undaunted.

Since the recent defeut of the Austrians freed Servian soil of invaders, plans have rapidly gone forward for the next move in the great game of wounded soldiers in the hospitals have told the correspondent of the Associated Press that they feel their second life purpose will be lost if they are unable to help in the deliverance of their kinsmen on Austro-Hungarian territory. The Servian offensive will be shared by the Russians and the hope is expressed here and at Nish that Rumanian troops also will be in the column hurled across the Hungarian frontier. Since the recent defeat of the Ausgarian frontier.

The motto of the Servian army is AMONG THE PRISONERS. AMONG THE PRISONERS.

The traveler in Servia is somewhat dazed at first to discover among the prisoners of war a large percentage of Serbs of the purest race and tongue. Laving in Austrian territory they were forced to serve in that army until a surrender gave them the opportunity to serve their own country. Some are helping in the military hospitals, while others are doing scout and picket duty along the Albanian border.

LADY PAGETS PARTY.

In the party of doctors and nurs Lady Paget was an American, Mr. Markoe, whose father and grandfather were New York surgeons. This party arrived in time to care for the thousands of wounded Servians and Austrian prisoners sent down from the front in the battles which drove the Austrians from Belgrade. Every available space in the general hospital was filled with straw. As many as three persons slept under one blanket. Lady Paget's party, which had taken charge of the general hospital here, consisted of more than fifty persons, surgeons, nurses, orderlies and servants. Their work is regarded by the Servians as invaluable.

uncanny sort of life in the houses. It comes from the cellars where our soldiers are in quarters.

"We finally met the commandant of the place. He had been decorated with the iron cross, first-class, and showed that he was glad to see new faces in this place of desolation.

"As he explained the situation to us, bullets hit the walls to the left and right of us. We counted forty-five in one minute on the wall of a building close by. Zealously, by day and night, this waste of ammunition goes on.

"The only living creatures our men found in Dixmude were a dog and three cats. Three times—four times Dixmude has been the center of a battle. But now the large heap of ruins is in our possession and with it we have gained a point directly on the Tser Canal, which passes close to the last houses of the town on the west. "But we intended to get into the frenches—the firing line.

"The road to this lay through a trench approach whose wild and bloody history is not likely to find an equal, even in this war. Off we gonthrough shell-wrecked houses, turnels, cellars, stables, upstairs through rows of rooms, then down again; across a narrow street exposed to the fire of the enemy; through more houses and rooms and across yards, and finally into a long subterranean passage from whose celling the water ran in streams.

PATENT MEDICINE FINANCIER.

JAMES. By W. Dana Bank. George H. Doran Company, New York. YAMES is the common, ordinary sort of AMES is the common ordinary sort of money-making man, who, lacking real ability, makes good with something resembling spectacular shrewdness; nor is he so much of a capitalistic genius as he fancies. Just when he's thinking of measuring Napoleon's fame and ordering a bust for himself to be inscribed: "James—Napoleon of Finance," the bottom suddenly drops from under him; but he clutches at a woman's skirt and expects her, to pull him out.

Parts of "James" are very well done; now and then we seem really to be in the midst of a gripping commercial novel, but such pleasant exhilaration is usually dissipated by the helter-skelter action of the book—the author flies from one situation to another, lugs in dialogue as though he had measured to get the right proportion to balance the printed appearance of the book, rather than the right proportion to improve the story.

The rushing, bouyant, confident character of James is shown very well; his action and his character are always congruous; but James is the only one in the book who is graphically drawn; Aubrey, the girl whom he should have loved, appears very vague—so vague in fact that she falls even to inspire sympathy when by all the canons of Parts of "James" are very well do spire sympathy when by all the canons of fiction sentiment we should shed a tear or two for her.

fiction sentiment we should shed a tear or two for her.

James, with his eye open for the main chance, learns something of the profit in patent medicine and the efficacy of printers ink. He concocts a hair restorer that is of no value, but writes advertisements that are. People eagerly tumble shillings and pounds into his treasury, and by branching out from his little village, he invades London, gets in with the money crowd, becomes a member of Parliament, and tries to "trim" some of his friends who are interested in rubber stock.

There is a certain virility and impetuosity manifest by the author that has a charm, though it gives the appearance of undue haste to be through with the story. The final situation, in which James makes love to save his bank account, is altogether too rapid. A character that is a comparative stranger to the reader is brought in at the last chapter to play an important role, and our sense of probability is given a severe wrenching while the author is working certain mechanical shifts to bring the story to tain mechanical shifts to bring the story

GERMANY THE AGGRESSOR.

THE NEW MAP OF EUROPE. By Herbert Adams Gibbons. The Century Company, New York. M. GIBBON'S prejudices are scholarly.

M. He goes deep beneath the surface of politics, and brings to light the invisible interlinear writings in the colored official books of the various governments. But, after all, much of what he tells is opinion and not fact. When he calls a British reply "fine and manly" he is not writing history, any more than when he says Germany deliberately prevented such negotiations as might have percent. such negotiations as might have perpetuated peace. Let him tell us what the British reply is, and we will decide for our-selves whether it is fine and manly; let him present the evidence as best he can, and we will decide for our own satisfaction who is to blame for the disrupting aggree-

In many respects, however, "The New Map of Europe" is one of the best books that have appeared on the war. It perhaps more thoroughly reviews the conditions prior to the assassination of the Austrian heir than any other, and shows something of the significance that the Balkan states have in the causes of the war.

Mr. Gibbons, for many years a resident in and student of Europe and especially of Turkey, conceives that aggresive German patriotism—the national schooling and educea the author takes no patriotism—the national schooling and educational campaign to incite the German peocations the same astute man ple to claim their "place in the sun"—and reasons why there were no diplomatic compromises calculated to preserve peace.

Mr. Gibbons is comprehensive; he searches deep into the national policies, explains the Russian aggression and protec tion of the Slavic Balkans, and amiable and uccessful Russian and British alliance in Persia; discusses the rivalry of Austria and Italy, showing why, although rivals, they combine to keep the Adriatic to themselves; gives much information on the many intricate alliances and reveals the persistent German influence in Turkey.

The book is unquestionably worth while to any one who cares for a perspective on the European situation and is interested in the affairs that have influenced the continent since the Congress of Vienna.

GERMAN ART. GERMAN MASTERS OF ART. By Helen A. Dickinson, M.A. Ph.D. (110 Hustrations in Color: Four in Momotone.) Frederick A. Stokes Company. New York.

M RS. DICKINSON'S book was not hastily prepared for the market created by the martial interest in German culture. It is plainly the result of many years of study, in the course of which she won her Ph.D., Heidelberg. Because of its comprehensive and authoritative nature, it is a book that seems due to become excessive ly important, no matter what final arbi-triment the gods of war may make in Europe. If Germany is crushed, likely enough much of the country's art will suf-fer, paintings will be lost or disappear; if Germany is victorious, Teutonic art then assume a new significance and be viewed with renewed interest. Mrs. Dickinson naturally enough begins with the medicaval school of Prague when the early Germans made—it does not seem to strong a word, although it is ours and not the author's-hideous imitations of the Italian pictures. There is very little of that quality which is generally understood to be beauty in German art; nor is there anything so insipid as mere beauty, whether in a picture or in a face. Bacon ventured to a picture or in a face. Bacon ventured to say that real beauty must have some strangeness in its proportions, and whether or not German art is ever credited as real beauty, it must be acknowledged to have that which appears to us as strange in the proportions; and which to those infatuated with the work of Italian Renaissance and the more modern Pre-Raphaelite movement is distasteful-more like grotesqueries than

Looks like a genius.

James Montgomery Flagg has done his worst or best, whichever you prefer, to make Compton MacKenzie look like a genius. Mr. MacKenzie, however, has used his own pen to give the impression of being a genius to many readers. His "Youth's Encounter" and latest book, "Sinister Street" (previously reviewed,) have much of high quality in them, and are books of such a nature that almost every public library in the country has modestly put them under lock and key. The libraries perhaps do not agree with Oscar Wilde's remark that there is no such thing as a "good" book or a "bad" book; it is either well written or it isn't. Mr. MacKenzie's books are well written.

loving critics as the most expressive and realistic portrait painters. The Germans do as Cromwell told his artist to do, paint warts and all—and the all includes the very character of the man or woman.

In her illuminating introduction—for that is what the first chapter amounts to—Mrs. Dickinson gives an essay on artistic appreciation, parts of which are as universally applicable to literature and music as to art; as, for instance, in this sentence: "In turning from the study of art in one country to that of another, a certain mental and emotional adjustment is necessary, just as passing from conversation in one language

Mrs. Dickinson is a dispassionate critic; Mrs. Dickinson is a dispassionate critic; her aim is accuracy, and no attempt is made to sweep the reader off his feet by enthusiastic adjectives. True appreciation always takes cognizance of faults; and while she does not exactly admit many faults—but rather treats them as unattractive aspects—she points out: "The strength and weakness alike in German art are the outcome of intense emotionalism... This Germanic perception of the inner life and character of the subject, this penetration below the surface, together with the close and with no regard as to whether the venlow the surface, together with the close observation of details which is spoken of in erable association of lexicographers have the scientific world as German thoroughness, issued the words a patent of respectability made the Germans notably great portrait

EDGAR ALLAN POE.

E DGAR ALLAN POE was one of the very, very few literary critics of distinction this country ever had. He was bitter, blased and prefudiced; he was often wrong, but usually right, and, differing from most of the prominent—though not necessarily important—critics of his day and of our day, did not healtate to imperful his reputation, by uncontrocal cert.

peril his reputation by unequivocal estimates of such writers as were before the public.

He was a critic first, an author afterward. He brought to his own work the same requirements of art, sincerity and precision that he castigated others for neglecting to use.

In calling Carlyle an "ass" he was neither original nor impressive; in claiming that Burns was the most overestimated poet living or dead he was perhaps exasperated into an exaggeration by much the same effulgent sentimentality now wasted on Rabindranath Tagore by those who have stifled appreciation for other things in literature; but in becoming a champion of Tennyson when he had not yet attained a reputation sufficient to cause culture-seekers instictively to praise every line, Poe valiantly stood out in the face of much literary hostility.

He usually stood out in the face of such hostility. No man could, as he did, publish a series of sincere sketches and estimates on the literary men and women of his day, analyzing not only the work of each, but also describing the physical characteristics and do it in plain words, without being bitterly disliked and noisily condemned.

One of the reasons we think that the Stedman-Woodberry edition of Poe's Complete Works in ten volumes, now being published by Charles Scribner's Sons, and distributed by subscription only, is the most desirable set of Poe's writings procurable, is because these criticisms are given in full. The Stedman-Woodberry edition was the first complete edition of Poe's works to be brought out after Mr. Griswold (a contemporary of Poe) undertook to publish them. Edmund Clarence Stedman and Prof. Charles Woodberry gave extreme attention to their edition first brought out some ten years ago, and which the Scribner house is now adding to its "Library of Modern Authors." All of the volumes have been printed from new plates, large type and on excellent quality of paper. In this edition may be found the complete assembling of Poe's known critical writings. It is doubtful if they can be found, even position of criticism, but are absolutely necessary to an exhaustive study of early American literature.

Poe dealt with sweeping, positive statements—as do most men who believe in the efficacy of midnight oil and who see those with whom they disagree going to bed early and sleeping late. Prof. Woodberry aptly defines Poe's critical ability in saying he had a judicial mind but was seldom in a judicial state of mind. It galled him to see trucklers, twaddlers, imitators, rising to even a transient fame and acknowledged by a wide and prosperous popularity. No by a wide and prosperous popularity. No man, perhaps, was ever better fitted for the work. He had a mind keen as a razor, and at times not much broader, with which

It is usual to credit one whom we admire with practically all desirable character-istics. Poe had many faults, literary faults, but he was one of the most sincere men who ever wrote. He never stooped; he wrought conscientiously and used words with a precision equal to Stevenson. He loved the strange and mysterious; quaint bits of ancient lore fascinated him, and it is rather disconcerting at times to find so much fragmentary erudition interspersed through his stories. His women were usually wraiths; his men unlike anything this side of hell and generally suffered as though they were not on this side. Nevertheless, he touched depths that many a sensitive mind plumbs for itself; there is a high order of intelligence which identifies itself with the somber psychosis, perhaps, more vividly exposed in his stories and poems than in those of any other author.

It may be said that Poe occupies the narrowest pedestal in the Hall of Fame; he is chiefly known for few stories and fewer poems. He never wrote a novel, unless the Pym adventure could be taken as such. The poems are spiritually tragic and tuned to melancholy harmony. He did not allow the sound merely to echo the sense; he scorned the commonplace and could see nothing acceptable in Whittler's verse or in Emerson's verse or prose. Poetry to him in Emerson's verse or prose. Poetry to him represented—as nearly as we can express it—musical imagery conveying the impression of exquisite sorrow. Fernal's a coincidence, but one may be induced to think that the consonant "L" had a poetic fascination for him; excepting "The Raven," almost every one of his "weird" noems are illustrative of this: "Lenore," pression of exquisite sorrow. Perhaps it is "Eulalie," "Annabel Lee," "Clalume." No one—and almost every youthful poet and many elders have tried—has ever imprisoned such exquisite distress into poetry. We actually get pleasure out of the anguish he expresses, and for many people nothing more haunting has been met with than Annabel Lee.

The best of his stories are well known. Except for satire, which is the laughter of the tragic, muse, he was never far from hypochondria.

No man, whether he likes these stories or not, can well deny that quality which we have agreed to call genius to Poe—not only for his imagination, but for his ability only for his maximation, our for his oblity to project the phantasies of that imagination into the mind of the reader. And the remarkable thing is that at no time, in no scrap of writing, with all of his amazing conjectures and outlandish visions, does Poe ever appear ridiculous. We dislike him or we do not dislike him but we never or we do not dislike him, but we never dislike him because he has failed to imand was dead at forty. Many people who never read a half-dozen of his stories can tell more about his drunkenness than there is reason to believe. During his day men, less gentle of tongue than now, and espe cially authors whom he wounded, were given to retaliating for severe literary criticism by exercising rumors relative to the moral dereliction of the critic.

For many years Poe was a common ordinary back; but he never wrote like a hack. He put sincerity and art into every line and often went hungry for it, so that near the end of his life, even as near the beginning, he and his family were objects of charity. It is folly even to attempt to put a cific number before his name to deter his relative greatness in American it ture. That he is great is indubitably sufficiently established by the wide rection given more than a half-century his death to his writings. Impostors thrive during their lifetime, but they not respected by succeeding generation

WHAT MAGAZINES WANT.

"The American Magazine" (New York) particularly wants to get hold of a free new writer. While it publishes work of the more famous all the time, it points with pride to the fact that it was the first to publish William J. Locke's serials in this country; Edna Ferber's stories; everything that David Grayson has ever written; the "Phoebe and Ernest" stories of less Haynes Gilmore; "Mother," by Kathleen Norrisall of whom are now famous, but at the time the American published their stories they were unknown writers.

Autobiographical articles and articles of adventure or of timely importance we are always very glad to consider.

"Our Interesting People" department affords another good opportunity for the new writer. These articles are from 500 to 1000 words long magazine article in them. Newspaper men, in their work of reporting, frequently run into these unusual, interesting people.

"The American Magazine" makes a special point of reading quickly and paying promptly on acceptance.

In general, the "World's Work" (New York,) is interested in receiving articles of achievement describing significant phases of contemporaneous life in concrete terms of men and events. The articles should be very specific and should be accompanied wherever possible by photographic illustrations.

Here is the material "Sunset" (San Francisco) is looking for: "Short stories not to exceed 5000 words in length, having a strong love interest or containing speedy action and well-sustained suspense. This perhaps is our greatest need. We are also looking for short verse of more than ordinary beauty on human subjects. This is about all we are buying at present."

FEBRUARY MAGAZINES.

Besides its war articles the February "Review of Reviews" has several interesting features relatings to the Fanama Facilite Exposition at San Francisco, which will take place on February 20. "California's Invitation to the Country" is expressed by Senator-elect James D. Phelan, while the architecture of the exposition is described in an slaborately-illustrated article by Ernest Knauft. President Benjamin ide Wheeler of the University of California writes on "The Meaning of the Canal," and Agnes C. ABRAHAM LINCOLN. ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

It is not easy to pick paragraphs from the book and set them forth as evidence of the charm and value of "The Illini," for the author has not bunched the whole of his descriptions, as the amatuerish novelists does. He has woven those descriptions with artistic sentences through the whole of the book. "The Illini" is written in the first person, and this is the author's original impression of Abe Lincoln: "My first impression was that he was the homeliest man I had ever seen; but as he moved and spoke this impression was gradually changed. He was awkward and ungainly, bony and angular, his body abnormally extended, his long legs and arms terminating in hig feet and large, bony fingers. His neek was long and seemed to be intended especially to lift his head high enough to survey every object about him. His head was covered with thick matted from his routh large, his juws widening back from his mouth and chin, and his cheekbones high. He had dark gray eyes, well set in his head, heavy eye-prowa, a large expressive mouth, and dark complexion."

Numerous stories and anecdotes are told of Lincoln, and especially of his insistent questioning of all who came near him; he was after knowledge—anything and everything that would give him new facts and new information.

Considerable attention is paid to the Lincoln-Douglas debates, the Considerable attention is paid to the Lincoin-Douglas debates, the gradually growth of Lincoin as a na-tional figure, the pandemonium of cheering following his nomination and his election and nomination.

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

Perhaps the most complete and graphic character in the book is Stephen A. Douglas. "The little glant," as he was aptly called, was a more complex character than Lincoln, being something of a combination of demagogue and martyr. He flattered the rough frontiersmen by asking them for a chew of tobacco. he opposed the propaganda of the abolitionists; he fought Lincoln with eloquent bitterness, but during the dark hour of secession, Douglass went forth, exhorting the people to rally round their President and stand by the Union to the last man. All of these incidents and aspects in Douglas's career are graphically presented.

GEN. GRANT.

As is naturally expected, Gen Grant is given considerable attention in The Illini, but Col. Carr pays no attention to the reports of gossip mongerers who have stained Grant's reputation with stories singularly unfitting one who did such work and rose to such dignity. Of the nobleness of Gen. Grant's character, this incident hears witness: During an important campaign "Gen. Grant teld us that he had attempted to advise Gen. Halleck, but his opinion was unheeded. He said that he was very desirous to have Halleck succeed, and that, although his own position was very humiliating, he would do his best in any position where he was placed—that he was in for the war, and would stay there as long as he was allowed to do so; and that if it should be thought here to the stain to the constitution of the standard Grant is given considerable attention was allowed to do so; and that if it should be thought best for him to shoulder a musket and fight in the ranks. he would do that cheerfully."

Gen. Grant was given the name of the "Sphinx." not because he was taciturn, but because, when a question was addressed to him which he did not care to answer he would remain silent, saving nothing one way or the other. This was very disconcerting to those who asked questions and gave Grant the reputation of being uncourteous, whereas it was most

Lieut.-Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn, just resigned as Minister of War of Germany, has been made a general of infantry, and in addition to this honor retains his place as Chief of the Gen-eral Staff of the field army.

The first battle squadron of the British navy has been placed in command of Admiral Sir Stanley Cecil James Colville. Although he has reached the highest position in the navy, Admiral Colville has just turned his fiftieth year.

Ernest Roume, former Governor-General of the French province in East Africa, has been appointed Governor-General of Indo-China by the Cabinet.

Premier M. Viviani, who gave out the answer of France to the German ultimatum, is essentially an artist. He knows the lines and the works of every living French painter of prominence. It is said that no poet has gained renown in France in the last generation without a gracious word from him, uttered at a time when the poet was still striving for recognition.

New York Cotton Market. Purnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The upward trend of prices was checked today by foreign news which indicated that further exports of cotton to Germany will be halted temporarily at least. As Germany has recently been a very large buyer of contracts in the market here, the trade was fearful that they would be resold. As a consequence a lot of long cotton held by speculators and investors was thrown overboard There was also some selling for short account. The chief buyers were the big local firms and shorts. Aside from foreign complications cotton is in a strong position. Following is range of quotations:

order for the expropriation of all stocks of corn, wheat and flour, which was announced most unexpectedly last night, is naturally the chief topic of discussion by the newspapers and the people. All are inclined to accept it in the best spirit and without grumbling, as a necessary measure to check the misuse of grain to live stock.

The measure provides for a reduction in the number of live stock, which, at the present time, is the extent, are being converted into sausage and smoked meats under the outground of the communes, which have been allowed to expropriate them. ure to check the misuse of grain stocks, which has been going on despite the earlier governmental meas- FRANCE ISSUES ure, and to conserve the grain until

The Tageblatt, however, is inclined to criticise the government for its delay in finding out that the 1914 harvest was only an average, instead of a bumper crop, as at first announced, and its failure to adopt long gos stems which are only new found.

EUROPEAN MEDAIS OF HONOR.

Germany's Iron Cross is Being Generously Distributed During the Present War.

[London Tit-Bits:] Great Britain may well feel proud and boast of her military decoration, the Victoria Cross, which is only conferred for conspicuous acts of bravery on the field of battle.

France confers her distinctive badges in the well-known form of the Legion of Honor.

Austria confers her ancient order of Marle Thérese.

Germany's equivalent of the Victoria Cross is the Iron Cross, which is said, the Kaiser has already given to 23,000 of his soldiers in the present war.

Russia distributes her cross of St. Viadimir sparingly to her successful soldiers.

Denmark has one of the most illuspers and cannals train service. For almost seven days they supplied some Germany days they supplied some Germany and avance infantry posts with ammunition and food.

Those poor letters! Letters from Germany, letters from France and Austria, from Belgium, fraternally mixed. All letters of anguish, coming more than 5000 a day at first, and now, many times more.

Here are a few extracts from some of them, not selected, but taken by chance.

From a French nurse:

"Gentlemen of the Agency of Prisoners of War: I have had no news of my husband since August 22. Is he prisoner, wounded, or dead?"

From another:

"My son, lieutenant in regiment, has been, it seems, grievously wounded at my where he has been abandoned. I beg you to find him. Enclosed fined 20 francs for expenses.

From one little village of France a list of twelve soldiers were send-disappeared. "Please find them."

From a mother:

From another:

"There is nothing more sorrowful for a mother, than not to know, in times like these, where her son is."

And so they run. "The war," says the same worker in the agency whom I have quoted, "the war, which dominates all, equalizes all. All are equal before the wicket of the agency—ministers and day laborers, duchesses and peasants, princesses of the blood and washerwomen—all are on a level before the impossibility of knowing."

has begun on the pouring of the con-crete in the new packing-house of the Fontana Citrus Association, at Fonana, fifty miles east of Los Angeles The building, plans for which were drawn by William Curlett & Son, is bulk of the navel crop from the Fontana district this season.

The entire building, walls, floors, columns and roof, is being made of solid reinforced concrete, with the roof supported by steel truss spans. The plans include the installation of the most modern orange-handling machinery. The fruit will be received by gravity into the basement of the building, and elevated to the labeling, sorting and packing machines above. The basement will thus be a cool room for storage as well as receiving.

The building is to be of very ornamental appearance architecturally, being one of the units in a general plan for improving the whole Pacific Electric Railway frontage of the town of Fontana.

The Palace of Education and Social Economy covers five acres and was built at a cost of $425,610. It fronts on the beautiful Fine Arts Lagoon, across which are seen the majestic colonnades of the Palace of Fine Arts. The area of the palace is about equally divided between the two subjects. Haif of the space devoted to education will be used by the various States of the Union and half by foreign countries. No specimens and examples of pupils' work will be shown, but each city will display its one specialty with working models where they can be for the spine capture of the Sun, across to the Strand.

A PROMISE ULFILLED.

The officers of the exposition have kept their pledge to make the P.P.I.E. the greatest single educational and uplifting demonstration that the world has ever seen. Men, women and children will have occasion to bless God for it, for generations to come. As I was strolling through the grounds one day the past week, I met Edwin Markham, the poet, and he said of it:

"It seems to express a faith that all things are possible; that man is supreme, the lord of existence and the conqueror of the planet. This is the Spirit of Youth."

LEASED TO GROWERS,

Sure About it.

[Kansas City Journal:] "Mrs. Alden has five children; if there were seven more, how many children would Mrs. Alden have?"

Several hands were raised.

"Anna may tell us," said teacher. "How many children would she have, "Anna?"

"Enough."

Ingly modest in the mental picture was a life; hence, believe that a life; hence, believe that a life; hence have been cultivating soil all my life; hence, believe that a life; hence have been cultivating soil all my life; hence, believe that a life; hence have contracts prepared at once, in accordance with the attached legal description, for 15e acres wheat land, 16 acres of affailta with perpetual water rights, and 5 acres of affailta land with water rights, making a total of 16.1 acres.

I bought four horses of your foreman, on the rather, and 16.1 acres this arm soon after March 1st, hence my address will be "Mills, Utah," after this consider myself extremely fortunate that I have been able to secure such a valuable tract of land at such a low price, and if there is anything which I can do or say to convince others of the exceptional opportunities awaiting them in Juab Valley you are at liberty to command me.

An assay made at the Kern county High School of ore from the Errecart High School of ore from the Errecart claims in Gold Peak Canyon in the Amalie district produced a gold button declared by local mining men to be the largest they have seen come from an assay. The exact figures have not been given out. The Errecart property lies between the Gold Peak and the Pearl and Zenda claims.

The old King Solomon mine near Havilah, revently brought out of litigation, is to be reopened. It has been a substantial producer, but, owing to the nature of the ground, it is considered quite dangerous to work. When operated before there were frequent cave-ins.

The stockholders of the latter concern do not look favorably upon the terms submitted favorably upon the terms submitted by the big Philadelphia mining company. It is believed the White Caps can do better continuing work on its own account, rather than surrender all rights to another company for a mere fraction of the net product. Another reason for lack of action is that it would be impossible to comply with the laws of South Dakota-calling for a three-fourths consent of all the stockholders to validate a conveyance of the whole corporate assets.

THE SHARK SUCKER.
Fishermen along the coast of Southerr California and Mexico are planning to add to the collection of exhibits at the San Diego Exposition a shark sucker, known fap and wide among sailors as the laziest and most good-for-nothing fish in the seas, and generally recognized as a rare catch.
This particular shark sucker was captured by fishermen of the sloop.
Ask Me, which is in the harbor here after a trip along the Mexican coast.
Besides being lazy and useless, the shark sucker is the prize tramp of the seven seas. By means of a vacuum cap attached to the back of his head he fastens himself to any moving object and clings there for days and ofen weeks at a time, calmly loafing along while his unwilling carrier tows him. The fishermen hope to display the Ask Me's catch at the great aquarium on the exposition grounds.
